'The Single Deadliest Mass Vaccination in Modern History'

It's a simple question but do you know the answer? How many Americans have died after taking the COVID vaccine? If you look at the U.S. Vaccine Adverse Event Reports System (VAERS), 3,362 people died after getting it just between late December 2020 and April 23, 2021 — an average of 30 people every day.

So why aren't you hearing more about that? Why aren't government officials talking about it? "You'd think you would know more about that than what you do," Tucker Carlson says, especially since statistics show the actual number probably is even higher than that.

"But amazingly … no one even mentions the numbers and in fact you're not allowed to — you'll be pulled off the internet if you do. The people in charge do not acknowledge them," Carlson says. "Instead, they warn us about what might happen if we don't take the vaccine … [But] do you know anything about the downside … [or] the potential risks?"

With other vaccines, the government discloses the number of people who die after they received them, but what about with the COVID vaccine? "What is the real number of people who apparently have been killed or injured by the [COVID] vaccines?" Carlson presses.

"Well, we don't know that number. Nobody does. We spoke with one physician today who actively treats COVID patients. He described what we're seeing now as the single deadliest mass vaccination event in modern history."
